Please note: The information on this page is for Australian products only. Models, sequences, error codes or settings will vary depending on the location and/or where the product was purchased. To be redirected to your local support page, click here. If you are having problems with the ice machine in your Samsung refrigerator, we have a couple of things to check on this page. It is also a good idea to refer to the User's Manual for your specific refrigerator, as this page only covers generalized information to cover most models. Also, be sure to initialize your ice maker correctly. Check operating hours and temperature When the refrigerator is used for the first time or after a long period of time, the appliance must be in operation for at least six hours before ice can be made. If the refrigerator has been in operation for more than six hours, first check the set temperature. It should be - 15oC or cooler for the freezer compartment. If there's ice in the ice storage container, and you hear the sound of engine movement when you press the ice maker's lever, but the ice doesn't come out, check the following cases. View on-screen mode Check if the refrigerator is in ICE OFF mode. The ice maker function can be activated by pressing the Ice Type button. Please note: The actual layout of the display panel may vary depending on the type of model you have. If the ice passage is blocked by ice, it can cause a problem. Therefore, it is recommended that you periodically check and clean the ice passage. Lift the ice cube flap slightly and check the status of the ice produced. If the ice is piled up, throw away the ice and let the ice maker produce new ice. Ice can clump together if the ice machine isn't used too often or if you have the freezer temperature too low. When you don't use the ice machine for a while, turn off the ice machine to prevent frost from occurring. If the front of the ice dispenser is clogged with ice, clear the blockage by running warm water through the ice cube opening. Please note: Do not place fingers, hands, or any other inappropriate objects in the parachute cube or ice maker. You can hurt yourself and/or damage the refrigerator. Never place your fingers or any other objects in the dispenser opening. You can hurt yourself. Do not attempt to disassemble the ice machine. Do not wash or spray the ice cube with water while in the freezer. Remove it to clean it. It is recommended to test the ice maker to find that any of the problems are inside. You can test the ice machine by pressing and holding the test button on the ice machine. Yes Produced ice cubes are too small in quantity, you can consider various types of problems such as water connection, water pressure, etc. The test button will be located on the side or bottom of the ice machine. You'll hear a response tone when you press the button and another tone at the end to indicate that the ice machine is functional. You'll hear the engine running and a small amount of will dispense in the end. Please note: Samsung refrigerators produce about 120 ice cubes a day. Empty the ice tray and let the unit run for 24 hours. If fewer than 50 buckets occur during the 24-hour test, your refrigerator requires service. If the freezer has an ice machine, hot air may enter each time you open the freezer door. Most ice makers have a flap that prevents cold air from leaving the freezer and keeping hot air out. Open the freezer and examine the ice parachute. There must be a flap of material to be emptied against the housing. If the flap is not sitting flush, check for ice or debris that may be blocking it. When the flap and ice box do not fit properly, it can cause ice debris to form. We carry more than 4 million pieces from over 175 major brands, so chances are we have the part you need. BUY PARTS When you press the ice dispenser lever on the freezer door, the ice falls from the dispenser and enters your glass. This doesn't happen just by gravity or magic. A large cork screw-shaped metal bar twists inside the ice tray to help drive the ice into the dispenser opening. This bar is threaded through the back of the ice sheet and slides into the auger motor on the back of the freezer. If the ice is no longer dispensed from the freezer door, try the auger's engine to see if it's still working. Works.
